To Honor

OUTSTANDING MEN AND WOMEN

In The

FEDERAL GOVERNMENT

The George Washington University announces the Seventy-First Annual Arthur S. Flemming Awards Program honoring outstanding men and women in the federal government in 2019.

Purpose of the Arthur S. Flemming Awards Program

The Flemming Award was created in order to single out and celebrate the achievements of unique federal employees, usually in the early part of their careers, who went beyond what was expected to make a major impact in society. Throughout his life, Arthur Flemming championed social equity through his roles within government and through service to his community. Just like Dr. Arthur S. Flemming, whose passion and commitment to federal service did not stop at the boundaries of his work in any single agency, but exploded across countless organizations and disciplines, the Award recognizes strong performers who bridge disparate missions and drive towards a single goal of public service. Enscribed in the requirements for selection for the Award are Dr. Flemming's desire to remember those whose achievements broadly impact society, and the recognition of his own remarkable accomplishments as a beacon of direction and encouragement to people of all social, economic, and racial backgrounds.

Eligibility of Nominees

- Any career civilian employee of the executive branch of the U.S. government or member of the uniformed services who has at least three (3), but no more than fifteen (15), years of service as of December 31, 2019, is eligible for nomination for the Arthur S. Flemming Award.
- Similar employees of the Library of Congress, Government Accountability Office, Office of the Capitol Architect, Administrative Office of the U.S. Courts, Government Printing Office, and Botanical Gardens are also eligible.
- A nominee may be an officer or employee in the agency headquarters or field service throughout the world.
- Awards will be made to individual government employees who have made outstanding contributions to public service on either a sustained basis or through a single exceptional accomplishment achieved or completed during 2019. Individuals previously nominated, but not selected, for a Flemming Award may be renominated, subject to the eligibility criteria stated above.

Award Categories

Awards will be made in five categories:

- Leadership and/or Management;
- Legal Achievement;
- Social Science, Clinical Trials, and Translational Research;
- Applied Science and Engineering; and,
- Basic Science.

A nomination must be submitted in only one category, even though duties may overlap in two or more areas. Nominees should have demonstrated exceptional ability and superior performance during the year for which the nomination is made, either in work undertaken during that year or in successful completion during that year of a task commenced in the prior year(s). Nominations for work undertaken entirely in, or completed in, prior years are not eligible. Nominees also should have demonstrated either a single, outstanding achievement, or a continuously superior level of performance over a period of time, as well as recognition through awards and publications.

Definition of Categories

Leadership and/or Management: Exceptional achievement in the leadership and management of significant federal programs or projects of all kinds or in the direction or development of innovative administrative aspects of management, such as human capital management, financial management, procurement, budget and policy analysis, strategic planning, information technology management, physical asset management, and successful program implementation through working with other levels of government.

Legal Achievement: Outstanding success in the research, trial preparation, and prosecution of major legal cases, civil or criminal, the outcome of which have had significant impact on the future conduct of the government's legal activities, allowed the government to recoup significant monetary savings, and/or have led to the introduction of major legislation with far-reaching consequence on the national level.

Social Science, Clinical Trials, and Translational Research: Innovative contributions toward the understanding of our democratic society and its individual members (social science), or rigorous guidance of a comprehensive test of a new method or drug that may significantly enhance the treatment of various prevalent diseases in the world (clinical trials), or major entrepreneurial effort to move the results of basic or applied science out of the laboratory to the stage of producing a prototype drug, instrument, or method of treatment (translational research). It can be expected that a wide spectrum of highly qualified individuals may be nominees under this heading. To be eligible to be nominated under one of the components of this category, the nominee must be the prime instigator or leader of the work.

Applied Science and Engineering: Creative application of basic science or mathematical understanding to solve a major problem or problems important to a government agency's objectives. Such applications may lead to a new technology or device that has broad application. Applied scientists, applied mathematicians, computer scientists, and engineers are expected to be nominees in this category. It is expected that the nominee is the individual personally responsible for the application.

Basic Science: Forefront work in the nominee's field of scholarship/ research in the basic sciences that is considered to be fundamental to the advancement of that field. This work is usually of a pioneering nature that leads to unique and innovative understanding, with whole new directions within a field or whole new fields of scholarship/ research being created. It is expected that the nominee is the individual personally responsible for the breakthrough.

Award Selection and Presentation

A panel of distinguished, nationally prominent judges will choose winners of the award. Each award winner will receive a suitably engraved medal. Awards will be presented at the Arthur S. Flemming Awards Program in Washington, DC, on Tuesday, June 9, 2020.

Preparation of Nominations

When preparing the nomination packet, please follow these technical requirements:

- Nominations MUST be submitted in either hard copy or electronically via PDF. All hard copy nominations must be submitted on 8 1/2" x 11" paper. E-mail submissions are strongly encouraged.
- All information submitted in a nomination must be typewritten, using Times New Roman or Cambria 11- or 12-point font. The nominations should be single-spaced, with double-spacing between paragraphs.
- No more than two nominations per category will be accepted from any one agency.
- The George Washington University must be specifically notified of any facts or information that may not be released to the public news media.
- There is no page limit, but we recommend that nominations be as concise as possible.

To see frequently asked questions about the nomination form, requirements, or timeline, please visit the Flemming website (see FAQs at <http://tspppa.gwu.edu/flemming-awards-faqs>).

In evaluating the nominations, the judges will give special emphasis to the PROFESSIONAL ACHIEVEMENT of the nominee.

Judges will also consider the following criteria in evaluating nominees:

- Personal and professional imagination and vision: To what extent does the nominee create a large impact or tangible result through creativity in process, collaboration, and technology?
- Cross boundary leadership: To what extent does the nominee engage people and/or organizations over which the nominee has no direct administrative control?
- Aligning work objective to important public policy issues: To what extent does the nominee create a result or impact that affects an enterprise or large constituency?
- Social equity support: To what extent does the nominee demonstrate personal commitment to addressing issues of social equity through his or her contributions both personally and professionally?

Each nomination packet should include the following components in the specified order:

- The first page of the nomination should be the "Arthur S. Flemming Awards Nomination Form" that is found in the nomination packet, and should be completed in detail.
- If it is not possible to use the nomination form provided, a substitute must be drafted in exactly the same way and contain all of the information requested, including an original signature.

Citation of Government Service:

- The second page of the nomination packet must be a citation (a paragraph of at least 125 words but no more than 175 words in length) giving a synopsis of the work and accomplishments performed by the nominee who is being considered for the award.
- The citation should include a compelling statement describing how the nominee exceeded performance expectations, as opposed to merely doing his or her job. Please note, while exceeding a performance metric and contributing to the accomplishment of the Department's organizational mission and strategic goals is laudable, it does not necessarily evidence exceptional work above that which would have been expected by the nominee in the normal course of his or her job. The impact of the nominee's accomplishment must be truly exceptional and reflect only the highest level of achievement in the Department.

- The citation should be drafted in a format suitable for use in the awards program, press releases, and a commemorative brochure. Nominations that fail to include such a paragraph will be considered incomplete and may be subject to disqualification.

Page 3 - End of Nomination:

The remaining pages of the nomination packet should include the sections listed below. Each of the four sections should begin on a NEW sheet of paper and have the section title at the top of the page.

Federal Employment History:

- A brief chronological review of the nominee's federal employment (military and/or civilian) indicating the number of years in each position.
- A brief description of the nominee's present duties and responsibilities, including the scope of his or her work.

Professional Accomplishments:

- A description of the nominee's specific accomplishment(s). This description should make clear the nature and significance of the achievements and the nominee's specific role.
- Include a statement of the extent of impact of the nominee's achievement, e.g., installation, an entire agency, or government wide.

Awards and Publications:

- A list of any government or professional awards received and a list of any professional publications germane to the nominee's career objectives. (Copies of publications should not be submitted.) If the publications list is longer than one page, additional pages may be included to capture all relevant publications.

Advancing the Common Good

- Contributions related to the nominee's area of professional endeavor (including to his or her broader field or profession) that demonstrate clear and sustained commitment to enhance the fair, just, and equitable distribution of public services and implementation of public policy should be described.
- Meaningful and worthwhile public service activities that benefit the community where the candidate lives will also be considered.

Submission of Nominations

Throughout the history of this Award, the endorsement of nominations by the agency heads has been of paramount importance, as evidence of interest on the part of senior management in the performance of subordinate employees.

Nominations must be submitted in hard copy or electronically via e-mail in PDF format. A nomination must bear the signature approval of the agency head or acting agency head. Nominations that are not approved in this manner may be liable to disqualification.

Nominations must be received by the George Washington University NO LATER THAN 5:00PM, Friday, January 31, 2020.

They may be submitted via e-mail in PDF format to Laurel Varnell (FlemmingAwards@gwu.edu) or via mail to the following address:
