Course Description & Objectives

This course seeks to link economic theory with policy analysis, using the tool commonly referred to as "benefit-cost analysis" (BCA) or "cost-benefit analysis" (CBA). As a formal assessment of a policy’s costs and benefits, CBA attempts to measure and compare the economic efficiency of policy options. This type of analysis has become standard practice in policy analysis—particularly in microeconomic policy areas such as the provision of public goods and government regulation. The goal of the course is to provide you with the conceptual foundations and practical skills you will need to be thoughtful consumers and producers of CBA.

The class will draw on qualitative, quantitative, and analytic skills. As a practical matter, a familiarity with microeconomic theory, statistics, and algebra is assumed. The prerequisite for this class is PPPA 6014 (Economics in Policy Analysis) or Econ 6283 (International Trade Theory & Policy). If you have not taken one of these courses, you must get my approval before enrolling.

The course is designed primarily around the interests and requirements of MPP and PhD Public Policy & Administration students, but I welcome students from any and all other disciplines. I have indicated extra readings and practice problems for the PhD students below. While the PhD students will not be tested on these readings and problems directly, they are considered important in preparation for comprehensive exams and your future career. These readings and problems can also be considered "recommended" extra resources for interested MPP students.

Learning Objectives

Through lectures, discussions, readings, assignments, and exams, students will develop knowledge and skills that will enable them to:

- Conduct a thorough cost-benefit analysis.
- Understand and articulate the limitations of a cost-benefit analysis.
- Critically analyze cost-benefit analyses conducted by others.
• Apply economic theory to real-world policy problems.
• Evaluate and compare alternative policies using the tools of cost-benefit analysis and economics generally.

Course Requirements

• In-Class Exam (25%)
  o Covers all course material up to that point. More details to come.

• CBA Project (total=70%)—See the CBA guidelines handout for details.
  o CBA Project Proposal (5%)
  o List of Potential Costs & Benefits (5%)
  o Literature & Data Review (5%)
  o Presentation (10%)
  o Final Paper (45%)

• Class Participation (5%)
  o I value your positive participation in class discussions, in-class exercises, and other class activities.

• Practice Problem Sets (0%)
  o You are not required to turn in the problem sets. They are designed to help reinforce the concepts from class and prepare you for the exam. They are listed on the syllabus under the class in which the concepts are covered. The idea is that you should be able to do them AFTER the class under which they are listed. I will post solutions on Blackboard about a Class later.

Additional Policies & Information

- Attendance: Please try not to miss class! They are your most important source of information for the exam and project and class participation is part of your grade. If you are late or have to miss class, you do not need to let me know, but please make sure you view recordings download all relevant materials from Blackboard. Since this class is online, please have access to Blackboard with a microphone and camera (at times) ready.

- Turning Things In: Project assignments should be turned in electronically using Blackboard’s “Assignment” feature on the main menu. Whenever possible, please turn in pdf files of your work.

- Deadlines: This syllabus provides all relevant due dates for assignments. It is your responsibility to ensure that I receive your assignments on time. Electronic copies of the assignments can be uploaded until midnight on the due date. Late assignments will be marked down for each day they are late (only extreme circumstances warrant exception).

- Collaboration: You are welcome to work together on the practice problems and share comments and advice on CBA projects. However, the exam and project assignments to be turned in must be done on your own.

- Academic Integrity: Academic dishonesty will not be tolerated and I regularly check exams and assignments for plagiarism and cheating. You are responsible for knowing and following all of the definitions and policies established in the George Washington University Code of Academic Integrity at http://www.gwu.edu/~ntegrity/code.html.

- Grade Changes: No changes can be made in grades after the conclusion of the semester, other than in cases of clerical error.

- Credit Hours: Over 15 weeks, students will spend 1 hour and 50 minutes (110 minutes) per Class in class. Required readings, practice problem, and the CBA project are expected to take up, on average, 8 hours (480 minutes) per Class. Over the course of the semester, students will spend 27.5 hours in instructional time and 120 hours preparing for class, for a total of 147.5 hours.
• Respect for Diversity: It is my intent that students from all backgrounds and perspectives be well-served by this course, that students’ learning needs be addressed both in and out of class, and that the diversity that students bring to this class be viewed as a resource, strength, and benefit. I strive to create an inclusive classroom and present materials and activities that are respectful of diversity including gender, sexuality, disability, age, socioeconomic status, ethnicity, race, culture, and political affiliation. Your suggestions are encouraged and appreciated.

• Conduct: Higher education works best when it becomes a vigorous and lively marketplace of ideas in which all points of view are heard. Free expression in the classroom is an integral part of this process. At the same time, higher education works best when all of us approach the enterprise with empathy and respect for others, irrespective of their ideology, political views, or identity. We value civility because that is the kind of community we want, and we care for it because civility permits intellectual exploration and growth.

• In order to receive accommodations on the basis of disability, you will need to provide proper documentation to the Office of Disability Support Services, Rome Hall, Suite 102, http://disabilitysupport.gwu.edu/.

• Extra Help: Please be sure to contact me or come to office hours early in the semester if you are struggling with course materials or if you have specific questions pertaining to your CBA project.

• Feedback: I welcome your feedback on my teaching, the CBA project, and the course in general. In particular, if you find any interesting articles, CBAs, or other references that you would recommend for future classes please send them my way!

• Use of Electronic Course Materials and Class Recordings. Students are encouraged to use electronic course materials, including recorded class sessions, for private personal use in connection with their academic program of study. Electronic course materials and recorded class sessions should not be shared or used for non-course related purposes unless express permission has been granted by the instructor. Students who impermissibly share any electronic course materials are subject to discipline under the Student Code of Conduct. Please contact the instructor if you have questions regarding what constitutes permissible or impermissible use of electronic course materials and/or recorded class sessions. Please contact Disability Support Services at disabilitysupport.gwu.edu if you have questions or need assistance in accessing electronic course materials.

• This course/lecture may be audio/video recorded. The recording will be made available to students in this class. As part of your participation in this course, you may be recorded. If you do not wish to be recorded, please contact the GW Privacy Office (privacy@gwu.edu) the first week of class (or as soon as you enroll in the course, whichever is latest) with your privacy concern.
